HINT WARSHIPS OF U. S. INTENSIFYING 'SUB' HUNT EFFORT

More Intensive Search Made Following the Sinking of Another U. S. Vessel

FREIGHTER GOES DOWN

Incident Involves The Seventh American Ship Sunk Since War's Outbreak

By Kingsbury Smith
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—(INS)—With guns manned and decks cleared for instant action, U. S. warships today are believed to be intensifying their efforts to hunt down Axis submarines in the north Atlantic, following the sinking of another American-owned vessel, the steamer Pink Star.

Sinking of the 6,850 ton freighter off the coast of Iceland September 19th—three days after issuance of the "shoot first" orders to the Navy—is viewed in diplomatic quarters in Washington as a direct and defiant German challenge to President Roosevelt's declared policy of protecting the ships of all flags between this continent and Iceland.

The State Department, which announced late yesterday that the vessel, flying the Panamanian flag, was sent to the bottom, is without further information as to the fate of the crew of 34 or any other details of the sinking. No Americans were aboard. The ship was operated by the United States Lines.

This latest incident involving the seventh American ship since outbreak of the war, is seen in Washington as fulfillment of Berlin's warning that Nazi submarines would continue to attack without warning in German blockade zones any ships suspected to be carrying war supplies to Great Britain.

It is further regarded as an indication that Germany does not intend to withdraw its warships completely from those waters which President Roosevelt has declared are "essential" to American defense.

On the contrary, it appears that German submarines intend to risk a clash with the United States Navy in order to attack ships in those areas which Germany has proclaimed a blockade zone.

Sinking of the Pink Star, formerly the Danish ship Lundby, is seen in official quarters as part of a deliberate policy rather than as an isolated incident. Officials are convinced that the German government undoubtedly notified the submarine commanders of the orders issued to the American Navy.

It is believed the ship that attacked the Pink Star would have had plenty of time to receive such notification before it encountered the vessel, which left New York September 3rd with a general cargo for the United Kingdom.

Therefore, it is assumed that the Nazi submarines have been instructed to continue to sink without warning any British-bound merchant ships caught in the German blockade zone. All of the attacks on American-owned vessels in the north Atlantic so far have been within this zone.

This fact has led to the belief in neutral diplomatic quarters in Washington that the German submarines may have been instructed to confine their attacks on the American side of the Atlantic to this zone, and to avoid encounters with American warships and merchant vessels elsewhere in the Western Hemisphere.

The Pink Star is the third American-owned ship to be sunk and the fourth to be attacked in the north Atlantic in the war. All the attacks have occurred in the neighborhood of the Danish Straits, between Greenland and Iceland. All of the ships sunk were former Danish vessels requisitioned by the American government and registered under the Panama flag to enter the Western Hemisphere.

BLACK EDDY RESIDENT MARKS 90TH BIRTHDAY

William R. Black Still Enjoys Walks of Several Miles; Good Health

NATIVEBUCKSCOUNTIAN

UPPER BLACK EDDY, Sept. 23.—William R. Black quietly observed a few days ago his 90th birthday anniversary at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Pursell, on the Chestnut Ridge road.

Mr. Black was born here on September 17, 1851, a son of the late Frederick H. and Rebecca Rufner Black. His father was a shoemaker by trade who also taught his son. Mr. Black worked at that trade until 1876 and then moved to Phillipsburg where he was employed in the yard of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey for seven years. After leaving Phillipsburg he moved to his native county and continued the shoemaking business.

Later he worked on farms, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company at Milford for 23 years, the Pennsylvania Railroad at Riegelsville for two years, and at the Upper Tinticum Cemetery, near Erwinna, for seven years. He was 73 years old when he retired.

When 18 years old Mr. Black began playing a violin by ear. Many years ago he played at sleighing parties and other affairs in his neighborhood.

Mr. Black has resided with the Pursell family for the past year. Last October his wife, Mrs. Flora Belle Moser Black, formerly of Phillipsburg, died.

The health of Mr. Black is remarkable for his age. Last week he took a walk with his daughter's dog, and before coming home had covered five miles. Besides walking daily, he is fond of riding in an automobile and usually takes trips week-ends.

Mr. and Mrs. Black had three children, two of whom are living. They are Charles H. Black, Riegelsville, and Mrs. Floyd Pursell, of this place. The family also includes five grandchildren, 14 great-grandchildren, and a great-great-grandchild.

Mr. Black has two brothers and a sister, Fred H. Black, Easton; Levi Black, Riegelsville, and Mrs. Charlotte Seager, Phillipsburg.

TWO KILLED IN ACCIDENTS IN QUAKERTOWN AREA

Seven Other Persons Suffered Injuries Received In Auto Crashes

SOME ARE IN HOSPITAL

QUAKERTOWN, Sept. 23.—Automobile accidents resulted in two deaths and injuries to seven others in this area during the past week-end.

A car operated by Edward Moyer, aged 18, 222 North Main street, Telford, failed to negotiate a curve in the road, and it crashed into a pole.

Weidemeyer, who suffered a fractured skull and internal injuries, died a short time after having been admitted to hospital.

Recommend Stackhouse Estate For Site of Defense Housing Units

Announcement is made today by Mrs. Martha Wooley, Lahaska, director of Federal Defense Housing for this area, that the recommendation of a site near Bristol for erection of 200 defense housing units was returned yesterday to Federal Works Administrator John M. Carmody.

The site is that of the Sarah Ann Stackhouse Estate, bordering on Beaver Dam Road and Green Lane. It is recommended that 45 acres on this property be purchased for erection of the defense housing units. All that is now necessary, stated Mrs. Wooley today, is for the approval by government authorities.

The Federal Public Building Administration was authorized by Carmody to select a location here.

Unauthoritative information received today is to the effect that Carmody has approved the site selected here, the same to be passed on for the okay of other officials. From an unauthoritative source also is received information that funds had expired, but a new appropriation bill is already in committee. As soon as funds are available, the project will go forward, it is believed.

The 200 houses planned, according to Mrs. Wooley, will be of a permanent construction, and not pre-fabricated.

In selecting the site for recommendation for the project, Mrs. Wooley says that proximity to Bristol borough, and also the new factory of Fleetwings, Inc., was considered; also proximity to the schools, etc.

The portion which it is believed will be used consists of 15 acres, sufficient large to erect 500 to 600 houses, although the allocation signed by President Roosevelt provides for funds for 200 only.

"It appears that the recommendation will be approved in Washington," stated this area's director of Federal Defense Housing. "We feel that the project will be pushed through as quickly as it possibly can be." The Public Works Administration will be the agency in charge of the erection of the houses.

Funds were allocated, states Mrs. Wooley, for erection of 126,390 units throughout the United States. Of these contracts have been awarded for 96,936 units; and there are now completed for use 40,436.

MEMBERSHIP DRIVE GETS UNDERWAY FOR CONCERTS

Workers Assemble at Dinner; Foresee Another Fine Season

M O S T ENTHUSIASTIC

The second season of Bristol Co-operative Concert Association was officially gotten underway last evening, when a dinner marking the opening of the membership drive was served at Fischer's Tea Room, Scudders Falls, N. J.

The 42 in attendance were unanimous in expectations that the 1941-42 season of co-operative concerts locally will surpass the initial season which occurred last Winter. The corps of workers left the session imbued with the belief that residents of Bristol, the surrounding communities in Bucks County, and part of New Jersey, are more eager than ever for plan of Co-operative Concerts, an international institution.

So successful were the trio of concerts given by outstanding artists of the musical world last season, workers feel that by next Saturday, the closing day for the membership drive, memberships will be far ahead of those of the first season. Still fresh in their memories are: the concert by Edward Kilenyi, who appeared in Bristol prior to his official American debut in New York City, and who is said to be the most popular pianist for recordings today; the program of Muriel Dickson, who is already engaged for two performances in Philadelphia this winter, and who appeared at Robin Hood Dell, during the past summer; and the Platoff Don Cossack Chorus, which thrilled approximately 600 here.

Artists of such calibre will again this Winter be available for pleasure of music lovers of this area, providing memberships reach or exceed those of 1940-41.

PLACE GUARD AT HOME OF CHILD HAVING POLIO

Family Reported Having Violated Quarantine Rules and Regulations

PLAN DRASTIC ACTION

A guard was placed at the residence of Joseph Lattanzi, 315 Penn street, today, due to an alleged violation of quarantine rules by members of the household. A son, Joseph, aged two years, is ill with infantile paralysis and a quarantine was placed at the Lattanzi residence last Friday.

The Bristol Health Board on two different occasions have warned the Lattanzi family, advising them of the rules and regulations which must be observed. The Board's health officer, James H. Brooks, was accompanied to the Lattanzi residence shortly after the quarantine had been placed, by Linford J. Jones, Chief of Police, and on that occasion told that the quarantine regulations must be observed.

Resterday it was reported to the Health authorities that Mrs. Lattanzi had left the premises and gone shopping. It was then decided to place a guard at the residence.

The Health Board is considering taking legal action against the family for what is an apparent violation of the rules and regulations of the State health authorities to prevent the possible spread of infantile paralysis here.

An Act of the Legislature provides that anyone violating the quarantine, if convicted, may be sentenced to pay a fine of not more than $100 or be imprisoned in the county jail for not less than 10 or more than 30 days at the discretion of the court.

COUNCIL OKAYS WATER AND SEWER MAIN EXTENSION

Enters Into Agreement With Fleetwings for Furnishing Borough Services

N A M E COMMISSIONERS

Two Vacancies, Created By Resignations, Filled On Police Commission

Borough council met last night and approved entering into an agreement with Fleetwings Inc., for the extension of the sewer and water mains from the borough to the new plant which Fleetwings is having erected in Bristol Township, and also accepted the resignations of two recently named to the Police Commission and filled the vacancies thus created.

The form of agreement for the extension of the water and sewer lines was presented to council, who after giving it consideration, approved it and authorized the proper officers of the borough to affix their signatures.

Council convened in a recessed session and was called to order by Burgess Clifford L. Anderson, who asked that a chairman pro temp be named to preside in the absence of the president, Dr. J. Fred Wagner. William Warner was selected.

Borough solicitor, Howard L. James, then presented the ordinance which authorizes the borough to negotiate the agreement with Fleetwings Inc. on behalf of Defense Plant Corporation. It was read by William J. Lefferts, secretary of council.

Mr. James suggested to council that due to the emergency of the situation and the urgency of the matter, that council suspend the rules and take up the ordinance for final adoption. Mr. James explained that it was a matter in connection with the national defense and that work had already been started on the project.

The agreement calls for the extension of the borough water mains from the existing lines at Wilson avenue and Bloomsdale Road to the Fleetwings plant on Bloomsdale Road, a distance of approximately 6,100 feet. The work is to be done at the expense of Fleetwings under Borough supervision. Bills for the water used by Fleetwings is to be rendered quarterly at the regular borough rates for such service. During a period of 10 years Fleetwings are to pay 50 per cent of solid bills in cash and the borough is to apply the remaining 50 per cent to the amortization of the cost of the extension. If the cost is not amortized within the 10 year period the mains become the property of the borough and if the cost is amortized before the expiration of the 10 year period the borough likewise takes title to the extension. The main will be a 12 inch pipe line.

The sanitary sewer extension is to be a 15 inch pipe extended from Bath and Mifflin streets, along Bath street to Silver Lake where it will follow the approximate shore line of the lake to Adams Hollow Creek thence to Beaver Reports from industrial centers having defense orders bear a striking resemblance: Heavy traffic, scarcity of houses, big increases in retail trade. Cities without defense orders are not doing so well.

WAR DEFENSE BOOMS

There are some areas that are riding high, wide and handsome. The Boston industrial area, which includes the cities of Haverhill, Lowell, Lawrence and Brockton has more than $1,000,000,000 of defense contracts, all placed since June 1940. The total defense figure for all New England is more than $2,000,000,000. They know how to make hay while the sun shines.

The Los Angeles area in California is in high gear. Makers of airplanes there have orders totaling $1,500,000,000 and builders of ocean-going ships have contracts touching $300,000,000. In 1939 the Douglas, Lockheed, North American, Northrup and Vultee airplane plants employed 25,000 men. Now the figure is 100,000 and a peak of 140,000 is expected.

Another exceptional area is Alabama. Birmingham is booming. The state has $350,000,000 in defense orders ranging from ships, shells, smokeless powder to aluminum and underwear.

BAKED AIR UNHEALTHY

In most of North America some form of central heating is considered desirable and necessary in winter. Thereby it becomes possible to live in comfort in cold climates, and winter loses much of its terror.

But because people are careless about ventilation and about preserving the natural humidity of the air, the majority of these homes supply the people with baked air in which the natural moisture is dried out, rendering the inmates subject to the multitude of ills which they get in winter.

The human body reacts unfavorably to such artificial atmospheric conditions as are produced in winter in the majority of homes. Old Man Grip thrives on baked air.

LACK OF PROGRAM

Two addresses appearing side by side in the newspapers seem to contradict each other. One terms mental apathy the greatest sin in the United States today. The other deplores the worrying being done by the people of this country. Only an expert in psychology could reveal whether it is possible for an apathetic mind to worry. Maybe it is. Maybe it is mental apathy that leads people to worry instead of doing something about their problems.

A great number of people worry about the international situation, the possibility of outright warfare, the dangers confronting this nation in such an eventuality and the economic problems that may arise when peace comes. They would like to do something to relieve themselves of their worries, but do not know what to do.

Perhaps here the fault is with the government. Washington has been engaged for several years, and has concentrated for the last year, in stirring up the minds of the people to a realization of the perils confronting them. But now the government appears apathetic in telling them what they can do about it all. An apathetic government promotes worry. The fears are prevalent enough, but the program, the tasks which give ordinary people a sense of accomplishment in overcoming the cause for concern are not outlined.

SENATE STENOGRAPHER by MAXWELL THAYER

CHAPTER ONE

EVERY legislature presents a drama, the stellar roles being played by big men . . . good and evil; the action truly representative of a cross section of American life. The legislature in this novel is no exception.

The Assembly, with its eighty members, mostly young men fired by ideals, and the Senate, forty older, more seasoned politicians, occupy the foreground of the stage. In the background is "the Third House," composed of the lobbyists who—good, bad and indifferent—have a strong voice in the bills that either become laws or are killed.

Off stage, there is that minor, but effective, part of the cast—attachés and stenographers.

Into such a human drama, at a state capitol one day, walked Gale Holoway, a small-town girl, who was destined to have a major part in the cast which had just begun its session.

Undramatically enough, Gale Holoway is standing beneath a shade tree intent on watching one of nature's by-plays.

A smile tilted the corners of her full red lips, lighting her features, as she watched a squirrel racing across the capitol lawn, its plumed tail a waving distress signal. The enemy, a glistering blackbird, swooped; then swooped a rain.

Gale stood fascinated by the scene. She was unconscious of the picture she presented. To the casual observer, her auburn hair glinting in the sunlight seemed to place a bright halo just around the brim of her smart, rakish hat.

Several men came down the walk and stopped to watch. They looked at the squirrel and the bird; and then they looked at Gale, and forgot about the squirrel and the bird.

Her dark business suit and white blouse were perfect complements for the pale oval face and deep, blue eyes. As she moved to get a better view of the flight of the squirrel, there was an easy grace to her stride.

She had that type of beauty that caught and held the eyes of every man and of most women. The latter mostly looked and envied; the former looked and looked again.

As the squirrel raced around a palm tree to freedom, Gale started to move away; her purse slipped from her arm and compact, lipstick and all the things a woman carries in her bag splattered hither and yon.

When she stopped to retrieve her gadgets, a tall, blond young man bent to help her.

As he handed her the lipstick, she smiled. She thanked him and stood up, dumping each item back into her purse. He smiled again, tipped his hat and went on. She noticed his hair was almost straw colored and his eyes a deep gray, a combination that immediately made an impression on her. He was "nice," she decided.

In her purse, undisturbed by the fall, were two letters, one of which, she hoped, would provide the start of a career as a Senate stenographer. The other was a letter introducing her to a woman of charm and personality, well known to capital society.

She did not know just what she expected from the career, but anything, she felt, would be a welcome change from the small town which ballots were taken before the employees decided to abide by the compromise agreement.

The employees have been granted an average five percent increase in the wages, and they will be paid time and half for all work over eight hours per day. In addition, they will receive double pay for work done on Sundays and holidays. In the agreement also is a clause which specifies that all young men who will be called into service will be given employment at the plant after they have been discharged from the service.

Not a single law enforcement officer was on the scene as the approximately 1,400 employees filed into the large plant. Company officials announced the latter part of the last week that the doors of the plant would be thrown open to employees desiring to work, and it was expected some trouble might develop, but when it was learned that the employees had reached an agreement at their conference, it was not felt necessary to call in the officials.

THE DIAMOND BRAND

ON THE SCREENS

GRAND THEATRE

The exciting story of Warner Bros. "Devil Dogs of the Air," which was filmed a few seasons ago, has even more significance today than at the time it was made, due to the widespread interest in national defense.

Heading the trend of the times, Warner Bros. have brought it back to the screen and it will be shown at the Grand Theatre today. The picture stars those two robust rivals of the cinema, James Cagney and Pat O'Brien, with Margaret Lindsay supplying the romantic angle.

BRISTOL THEATRE

Cynics may smile at the adage, "The show must go on." But where they have scorn, players show respect, and they did during "I Was a Prisoner on Devil's Island," thrilling new drama headlining Sally Eilers and Donald Woods at the Bristol Theatre. Woods plays a seaman in this story of two lovers trapped in the world's worst penal colony.

"The Cowboy and the Blonde" is also shown.

Membership Drive Gets Underway for Concerts

Megargee, who is general chairman of the membership drive, Eastman Boomer, organization director for the Co-operative Concerts, outlined distinctly the plan of such concerts, and mentioned the available artists, at the same time giving interesting sidelights on many, and spurred the group to greater effort to bring the best in entertainment to Bristol.

"When I go back to a town, and find stone-deafness turned to warm enthusiasm and support, it makes me feel good," stated Mr. Boomer, who is organizing the drive. After congratulating the workers on the excellent success of last year's drive, he mentioned that an endeavor will be made not to duplicate the type of musicians booked last season, but that those playing different instruments, or that those of different type voices will be secured if it is the desire of the members. Each one present last evening was given opportunity to list three selections, choosing by instrument, vocal group, or voice range, rather than by listing artists' names. "A good concert series varies its programs," added Mr. Boomer.

The organization director reminded that the only means of securing entrance to the concerts is through membership purchases. "No single admission tickets will be sold. The membership sales will close promptly at five o'clock on Saturday next. If the memberships are not purchased by then, individuals will not get in to the concerts." "Memberships are great bargains. Kileny, when here, was heard at much less than half of what it costs to hear him in Philadelphia."

Mrs. Megargee introduced a number of other individuals, including officials of the Bristol Concert Association, and other workers, all of whom expressed confidence in this season's success. Warren P. Snyder, superintendent of Bristol public schools and first vice president of the association, gave words of assurance as to continuation of activity on the part of the workers. Julian McCready, of the George School faculty, Newtown, expressed pleasure over the concert series of last year, adding that the students of his school were most enthusiastic. "I feel the students who purchased memberships last year will do the same this year." Student tickets are available to full-fledged, bona fide students at half price.

Dates of the concerts, at least three in number, will be announced later, as will also the names of the artists. The choice depends on number of memberships and availability of artists; and the dates will then be given. All concerts will start promptly on time, 8.30, it was announced.

Memberships are transferrable, a member unable to attend any one concert having the privilege of passing the card to a friend for the evening. Concerts in Woodbury, N. J., and elsewhere this season will also be open, at no extra cost, to holders of Bristol Association memberships, it was announced.

Others called upon to give ideas regarding the plan were Mrs. William Duhamel, second vice president; and Mrs. E. Lincon Martin, who has aided materially in the endeavor. Other officers are: President, Dr. J. Fred Wagner; secretary, Mrs. Russell W. DeLong; and treasurer, Lester D. Thorne. The concerts will not be scheduled over any week-end, or during any holiday season, it was announced.

A check-up meeting is called for Thursday evening, with workers being asked to report results to that date at the Concert Association headquarters, 201 Radcliffe street. Workers were asked to place emphasis on renewals until Thursday, and after that day the field of possible memberships will be open to all workers.

WALLY OPPMAN PICKED AS MOST VALUABLE PLAYER

Rohm & Haas Shortstop Given
Award at League
Banquet

SPARKPLUG OF HIS TEAM

Numerous Other Players Receive Gifts for Their Season's Work

The most valuable player award was given to Wally Oppman, shortstop of the Rohm and Haas team, last night at the first annual banquet of the Bristol Suburban Baseball League held in the Lido Venice Cafe, Andalusia.

Oppman, considered the spark-plug of the chemical workers' team, also led his team in batting and during the season drove in many runs. However, several other players were close in the running and so gifts were presented to them. They being:

Norman Tetterer, outfielder of the Badenhausen team; Bill Leigh, of the Edgely Club, "Jock" McCue, of the Auto Boys, and "Jimmy" Cooper, of the Voltz-Texaco nine. The above presentations were made by Paul C. Voltz, president of the league.

Joseph A. Diamanti presented a large trophy to Fred Oppman, manager of the Rohm and Haas team, for winning the 1941 championship. Rohm and Haas won both halves of the circuit.

Immediately following this, managers and players of the various clubs bestowed words of congratulation and praise to the Rohm and Haas team and several issued warnings that their club will be up there next season.

Those called upon for a few words were: Joe Kervick, Walter Miller, and Leo Burke, the umpires; Henry Morgan, manager of the Auto Boys team and treasurer of the league; Thomas Juno, secretary of the league; Herman Schmidt who assisted Oppman in the winning of the championship; Eddie DeKoy, manager of Edgely; Bob Cooper, manager of Fleetwings; Jimmy Cooper, manager of Voltz-Texaco; Charles vonWalleminich, of Badenhausen; Bobby Sutton and Andy Pfaffenrath, of the Odd Fellows.

George Dougherty and J. McCue, players of the Auto Boys team; Mike DeRisi, St. Ann's; Henny Morrell, of Odd Fellows; Howard Black, of Edgely.

Leon Plavin, owner of the Auto Boys' team, urged those present to get behind a proposition whereby Bristol could have at least two good baseball fields with bleachers for next season.

President Voltz thanked the managers and players for their co-operation throughout the season and also the banquet committee which made the affair a decided success. When Voltz asked whether the 200 present were in favor of another banquet next season, they all answered "yes" in unison.

The menu consisted of: Manhattan cocktail, anti-pasto, spaghetti, ravioli, turkey, mashed potatoes, lima beans, corn, cranberry sauce, bread and butter, coffee, and spumoni.

Music was furnished by a popular orchestra and a floor show featuring the Three Peppers and Allen Gale as master of ceremonies was enjoyed.

The committee in charge of the affair was composed of: Joseph Diamanti, chairman; Andy Pfaffenrath, Herman Schmidt, and the officers of the league.

St. Ann's Candidates Asked To Report Tonight

All candidates for the St. Ann's football team are requested to report to Coach "Bill" Dougherty tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the St. Ann's A. A. club-house.

If the players are willing, Coach Dougherty intends to open the season this Sunday.

Resignations of Jacob L. Hellman and John P. Betz, Jr., Esq., who were named as members of the recently created Police Commission were received and accepted with the regret of council. Mr. Hellman stated that due to the fact that he held an office on the election board in the sixth ward that he could not accept the appointment. Mr. Betz wrote council that acceptance of the appointment would not be "compatible with the practice of my profession."

At the suggestion of Burgess Anderson council then named Dr. James P. Lawler as a member of the commission for a four year term and Jacob C. Schmidt, Sr., for a six year term.

"Confident of Defeat" for U. S. War Resolution

Washington, Sept. 23—As administration demands mounted for repeal or modification of the neutrality act, Rep. Fish, R., N. Y., of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, today disclosed he will shortly introduce a resolution for this country to declare war.

The New York non-interventionist leader, emphasizing that he is not in favor of it, declared that Congress should vote on the war issue.

"I am confident that the resolution will be defeated two to one," said Fish. He said the resolution would be a "simple declaration of war" and added he planned to formally introduce it next week.

200,000 Soviets Lost In Battle Near Kiev

Berlin, Sept. 23—At least 200,000 Soviet troops have been killed in the gigantic ten day "iron ring" battle east of Kiev, bringing the figure of Reds who have been wiped out by death, wounds or capture to between 600,000 and 750,000, German estimates said today.

Fifty Soviet divisions have been annihilated, said the Germans, in what military authorities in Berlin described as "an irreplaceable, mortal wound in the Red Army's most vulnerable spot."

German Responsibility In Ship Loss Admitted

Berlin, Sept. 23—In a tacit admission of German responsibility, a Nazi spokesman today said the sinking of the American-owned steamer Pink Star "was all according to international regulations."

"There is no reason for Americans to cry," the spokesman said. "They have been made fully aware of the blockade zone."

The German-declared blockade zone embraces Iceland and extends to Greenland. The spokesman pointed out that the Pink Star was not under United States registry.

Reimer Coaching Line In New Job At Swarthmore

By Jack Gill

Mike Petrick, who before being inducted into Uncle Sam's mighty fighting forces was one of Bristol's keenest sporting fans, can't understand football breaking its way back into the sports calendar while he perspires 'neath Georgia's blistering rays.

"With football coming back it seems funny to be down here in this heat," writes the Wilson Avenue resident from Camp Wheeler. "I can't seem to understand how Southern colleges stand it. However, it's beginning to get cooler in the evenings, consequently we see why a larger percentage play night ball. The first game locally this season is played by Mercer against the University of Georgia. Mercer is located in Macon. And if I happen to stay here in October I will see the University of Notre Dame battle Georgia Tech at Atlanta. Tomasic, of Temple, seems to be getting a lot of publicity down here."

"In an Army camp the most popular sports seem to be softball and baseball. We probably will get a football soon. Boxing is another sport the fellows indulge in. Speaking of football, our Major Wade, a West Pointer, taught football at one time in some Ohio school and will do likewise at camp."

Here's another short card from Bensalem's assistant coach, Johnny Slaven, who hooked his way to many a circus shot in the Bristol Basketball League each winter. "Greetings from the Land of the Sunburned Doughboys," pens Slaven from Camp Craft, located in South Carolina. "I've completed two weeks of training in this soldiers West Point of the South and the going gets tougher each day. I'm just another small vertebrae in Uncle Sam's "backbone of the armed forces," and I'm not fooling my feet have taken a beating in the last four days. We have 165 Keystone Staters in our battalion and they're rapidly being whipped into A-1 shape." Slaven will murder us for publishing that "sore dog" item when he returns to Bensalem.

Postmarked from nearby Media is another short letter that is of interest to Bensalem fans. It's from George Reimer, the Owls former coach. "I'm assisting Bill Ziegenfuss (head coach here for 13 years) in football and am working mostly with the line. I definitely will be head coach in basketball. I am teaching health and physical education. Incidentally our football prospects aren't too bright. The boys are new and very light—though most of them played J. V. football last year. Gee, I wish I had some of my big Bensalem boys here."

A cute coincidence finds Bensalem's new coach, Norwood Wetherhold, and Bristol's new mentor, Clarence Bartholomew, hailing from the same high school. Both know each other from high school days spent in Allentown, where they turn out aces of all types. Bartholomew, Wetherhold, Jimmy Hauze (later Penn captain and center) and Monk Meyers, who starred for the Army, all attended the up-state institution of secondary learning around the same period.

who volunteered their services should be alert and active. "It is a home defense plan," said the speaker, "and we must be united and ready."

The assembly room in the Municipal Building was crowded with those from Bristol and Tullytown boroughs, Bristol and Bensalem townships, who have volunteered to aid in this great movement.

Col. Williams said the meeting was the biggest one of its kind held in the county. The enthusiasm was keen.

It was stated that as soon as all of the volunteers have been checked and the records completed, then caps and badges will be distributed. A number of new recruits were obtained last night.

able them to carry war supplies to Great Britain.

The first ship sunk was the Sessa, torpedoed on August 17th about 300 miles southwest of Iceland with a loss of 24 lives, including one American. The second ship was the Montana, torpedoed about 40 miles from where the Sessa went down. The crew of the Montana were seen by a British patrol flying boat to be taking to the lifeboats but nothing has been heard of them since.

Sinking of the Pink Star occurred about 45 miles northwest of the position in which the Sessa was attacked. The State Department said it had been informed by the Navy that the ship went down in latitude 60.36 North, longitude 35.07 West.

The fourth American ship attacked in these waters was the destroyer Greer, but two torpedoes aimed at it went wild.

Two other American ships have been sunk and one damaged. The Robin Moor was sunk May 21st in the south Atlantic, the Steel Seafarer went to the bottom in the Red Sea September 4th and the Arkansan was damaged in an Axis bombing raid while in harbor at the Red Sea port of Suez September 5th.

The Pink Star's crew included six British, eight Canadians, eight Dutch, three Chinese, one Dane, one Pole, one French, one Portuguese, one Irishman, one Ecuadorian and three Belgians.

Establishes District Defense Council

By International News Service
Harrisburg, Sept. 23—Governor Arthur H. James today established a district council of defense in metropolitan Philadelphia, embracing five counties, to facilitate the organization of air raid and fire wardens.

Counties included in the new council include Philadelphia, Delaware, Chester, Montgomery, and Bucks, with the chairman of each county committee named as members of the district council.

"Recent developments indicate the need for Pennsylvania's communities to busy themselves with the creation of a force of air raid and fire wardens," the Governor said.

German Besiegers of Odessa Thrown Back

By International News Service
Moscow, Sept. 23—Russian counter-attacks have thrown back the German besiegers of Odessa for "several miles," the official Moscow radio reported today.

Romania's army, before King Michael's domain entered the war, was estimated at well over 400,000 men, and has been greatly increased ever since.

The Russian radio also claimed extermination of an enemy infantry division in eight days of ferocious combat on the southern front.

Prior to this broadcast, the Soviet high command announced destruction of 100 German planes in a single day and also claimed the annihilation of nearly six German infantry battalions in a five-day battle on the central front.
